RÉAMHFHOCAL ÓN UACHTARÁN

Is cúis mhór áthais dom fáilte a chur roimh ár n-imreoirí chuig cluichí móra an lae inniu ar dheireadh seachtaine ollmhór don Chumann.

It gives me great pleasure to welcome the hurlers of Kildare, Down, Donegal and Mayo to Croke Park for today's Christy Ring and Nicky Rackard Cup finals on what is a weekend of huge significance for the Association.

Last night's commemoration was of momentous significance to the GAA reminding us who we are and where we have come from as a people.

Sport – and our games – were at the heart of the tragic events of 100 years ago this weekend when 14 people came to this famous old venue but never made it home.

They were cut short in their prime – three of them hadn't even left childhood behind.

Last night we honoured their memory and the loss experienced by their families and our tribute remains in place at the Hill 16 end of the stadium today.

While these events place sport in its proper context, they also serve as a reminder of the central role our games play in the lives of so many.

It is in this spirit that two All-Ireland titles will be contested today and I hope the play today will further honour the memory of the 14 people murdered on Bloody Sunday.

Down come to Croke Park on the back of a huge win over Offaly last weekend when penalties were needed to separate the teams. Kildare posted a huge score against Roscommon and advance to today's final buoyant.

Donegal came out tops in a high scoring encounter against Tyrone while Mayo had too much for Leitrim in the other Rackard Cup semi-final.

I wish the competing players and those who prepare them every success today and also acknowledge the role of our match officials in today's proceedings.

Go n-éirí libh.

THE STAKES ARE HIGH

Last Saturday afternoon, during these deeply uncertain times, word filtered through the hurling world that penalties were required at Páirc Esler: dramatic stories were continuing to unfold.

Offaly's Christy Ring Cup adventure was supposed to culminate in glory, but Down are enjoying a campaign sprinkled with encouraging tales.

Having claimed Allianz Hurling League Division 2B glory last month, another chapter was added to Down's 2020 account in Newry. Undoubtedly Down hit Croke Park heartened because that most valuable sporting ingredient - momentum - has been generated.

Kildare have stitched some encouraging victories together also. The opening round fixture with Offaly was postponed due to Covid issues in Offaly, but Kildare have embarked on a most productive stint.

David Herity's goalkeeping days with Kilkenny featured glorious outings at this venue, but his coaching career has provided interesting experiences. Clearly Kildare are benefiting from that guidance, and the Lilywhites are building for the future.

Potential exists, but the present matters too with Herity supplying valuable sideline leadership. The impending challenge against Down should be an exacting test.

The inter-county challenge is one Kildare's collection of experienced players relish and embrace. Paul Divilly has occupied a central part in the Kildare GAA story in recent years due to his work with a progressive Coaching and Games staff in the county.

On the field of play, though, Divilly remains an integral figure stressing the pleasure that can be gained from being involved at this level. "We get to play with the best lads in the county against the best lads from other counties," Divilly remarked a few years ago at the launch of the Celtic Challenge competition which was brought in to assist developing counties.

"It is a win, win for me. Fair enough you have nights during the winter when you are travelling down to Hawkfield when you mightn't fancy it, but sure it is the same as any walk of life.

"Sometimes I do think we overplay the whole emphasis on commitment and sacrifice inter-county players give. We do get a lot out of it and it is a very enjoyable past time for us."

Winning aids that aspect too and that is why Down will be eager to hoist further silverware at the Jones' Road venue. Goalkeeper Stephen Keith did his bit in the shootout success over Offaly, ensuring the prized Faithful scalp was taken.

Tradition exists in Down too and the Sands' name will always be synonymous with an interesting spell in the early 90s. The next generation are contributing handsomely for Down, who will be completely aware of Kildare's ability which is perfectly illustrated by the Lilywhites triumphs in the 2014 and 2018 Christy Ring Cup finals.

Down were victorious in the 2013 decider, and while last year's loss to Meath in the showpiece hurt, the response has been noteworthy. Back at the outset of March, Down narrowly overcame Kildare by 0-19 to 1-14 in the league, and all the recent signs suggest it could go the distance.

In the Nickey Rackard Cup, Donegal demonstrated admirable resilience when overcoming Tyrone in the penultimate round. Despite missing a string of key players, Donegal, prompted by Gerard Gilmore's two goals in attack, prevailed.

That represented a particularly sweet Saturday for Donegal as Gilmore pounced to net a brace of opportunistic majors inside a purposeful burst. Suddenly Donegal had something to protect and a trip to the capital was booked.

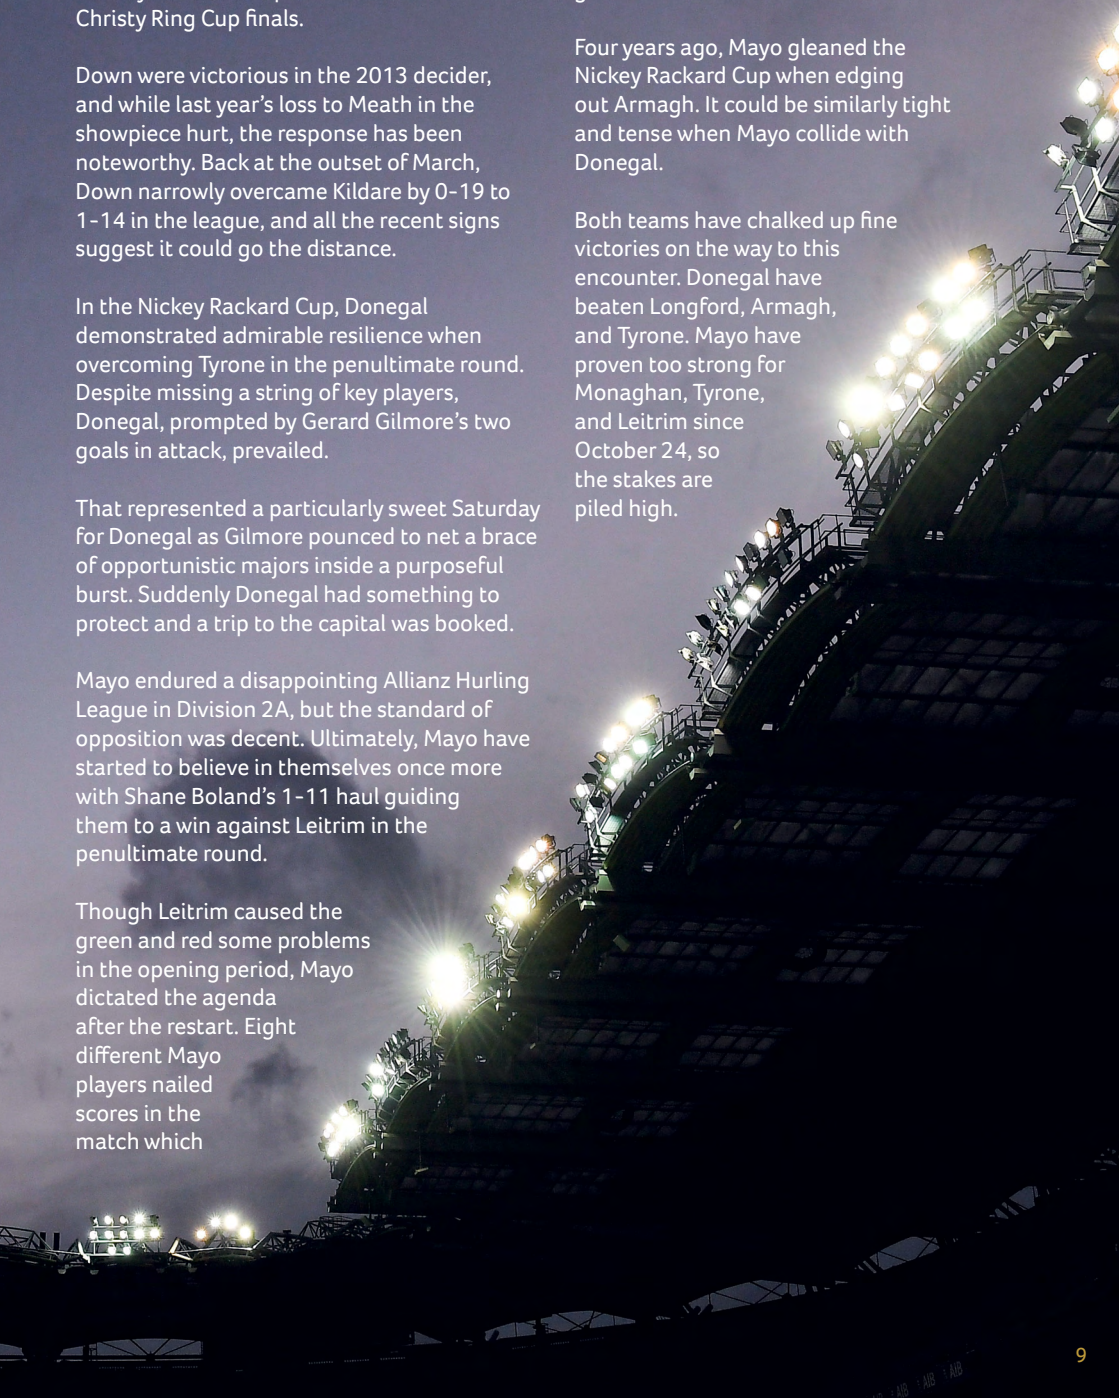

Mayo endured a disappointing Allianz Hurling League in Division 2A, but the standard of opposition was decent. Ultimately, Mayo have started to believe in themselves once more with Shane Boland's 1-11 haul guiding them to a win against Leitrim in the penultimate round.

Though Leitrim caused the green and red some problems in the opening period, Mayo dictated the agenda after the restart. Eight different Mayo players nailed scores in the match which highlighted the confidence that has been generated.

Four years ago, Mayo gleaned the Nickey Rackard Cup when edging out Armagh. It could be similarly tight and tense when Mayo collide with Donegal.

Both teams have chalked up fine victories on the way to this encounter. Donegal have beaten Longford, Armagh, and Tyrone. Mayo have proven too strong for Monaghan, Tyrone, and Leitrim since October 24, so the stakes are piled high.
